Explanation regarding Cloudflare Turnstile. Turnstile is a security check provided by Cloudflare, Inc. that only loads when you start to fill in or submit a form. According to Cloudflare's documentation, Turnstile uses cookies and local storage in your browser to keep track of the status of the check. In its cookie policy, Cloudflare mentions cookies for its security checks, such as cf_chl_rc_i and cf_chl_rc_ni. Cloudflare does not fully describe which storage is used with our settings and how long it remains. We have disabled the Pre-clearance feature, which works with the cookie cf_clearance. More information can be found in Cloudflare's cookie policy and in Cloudflare's privacy information on Turnstile; see also the privacy statement.

Websites: statistics, only with consent

With your consent, we use Google Analytics 4 to see how the websites are used, for example which pages are viewed and whether a form has been submitted. Without your consent, we do not load Google Analytics and nothing is sent to Google.

Name	Purpose	Retention period	Type
_ga	Distinguishes visitors by means of a random number	13 months	Statistics, only with consent
_ga_403VJZJR1P	Keeps track of your visit	13 months	Statistics, only with consent

- Google Analytics is configured so that the data is not used for advertising.
- We do not send your name, e-mail address or any other data you enter to Google. When a form is submitted, only the type of form is sent.
- The cookies only apply to voetbalhq.nl or voetbalhq.be itself, not to the Club Portal.
- voetbalhq.nl and voetbalhq.be use the same statistics environment. Your choice applies per website.

You can change or withdraw your choice at any time via 'Cookie settings' at the bottom of every page. If you withdraw your consent, the measurement stops immediately and we delete the Google Analytics cookies from that website.
